

Wisdom and Strength for the Future

Emerging Conference Thoughts

Wisdom and Strength for the Future

1. Does the US need a new and more clearly articulated grand strategy? If so, what should be its broad concepts? Is the US capable of developing, articulating, and implementing such a new strategy?

2. Rebalancing of civilian capabilities and capacities is very unlikely to happen. Therefore, what are the implications for the military and especially the Army? Must/should military prepare to assume those responsibilities? If so, should we not plan, train, and equip for them?

Emerging Conference Thoughts

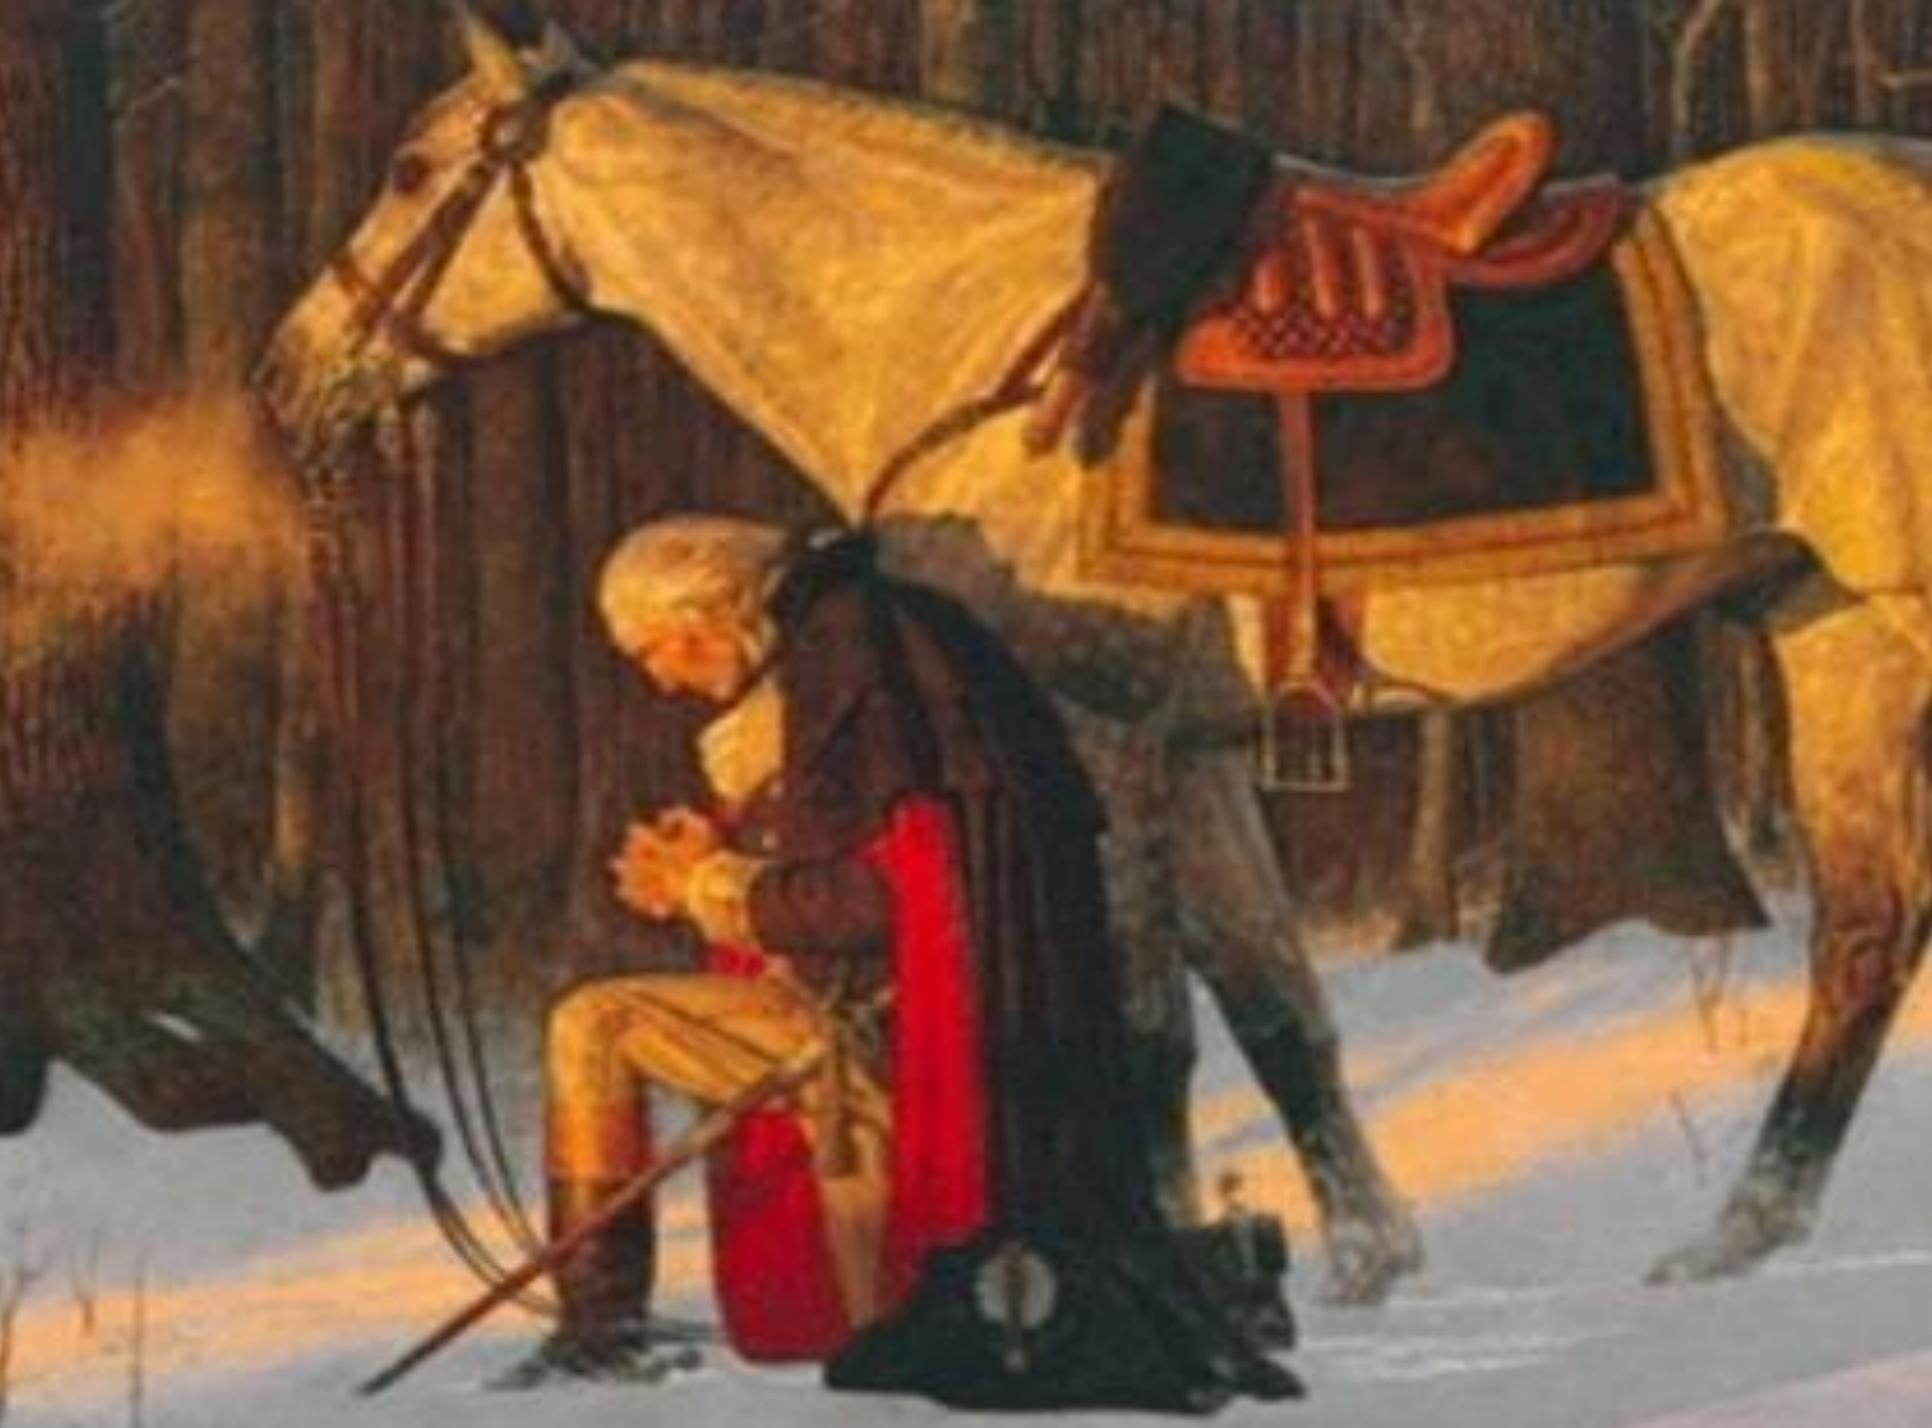

Wisdom and Strength for the Future

3. What does this say about the competencies the nation's strategic leaders must master, and how best to develop them in our military leaders?

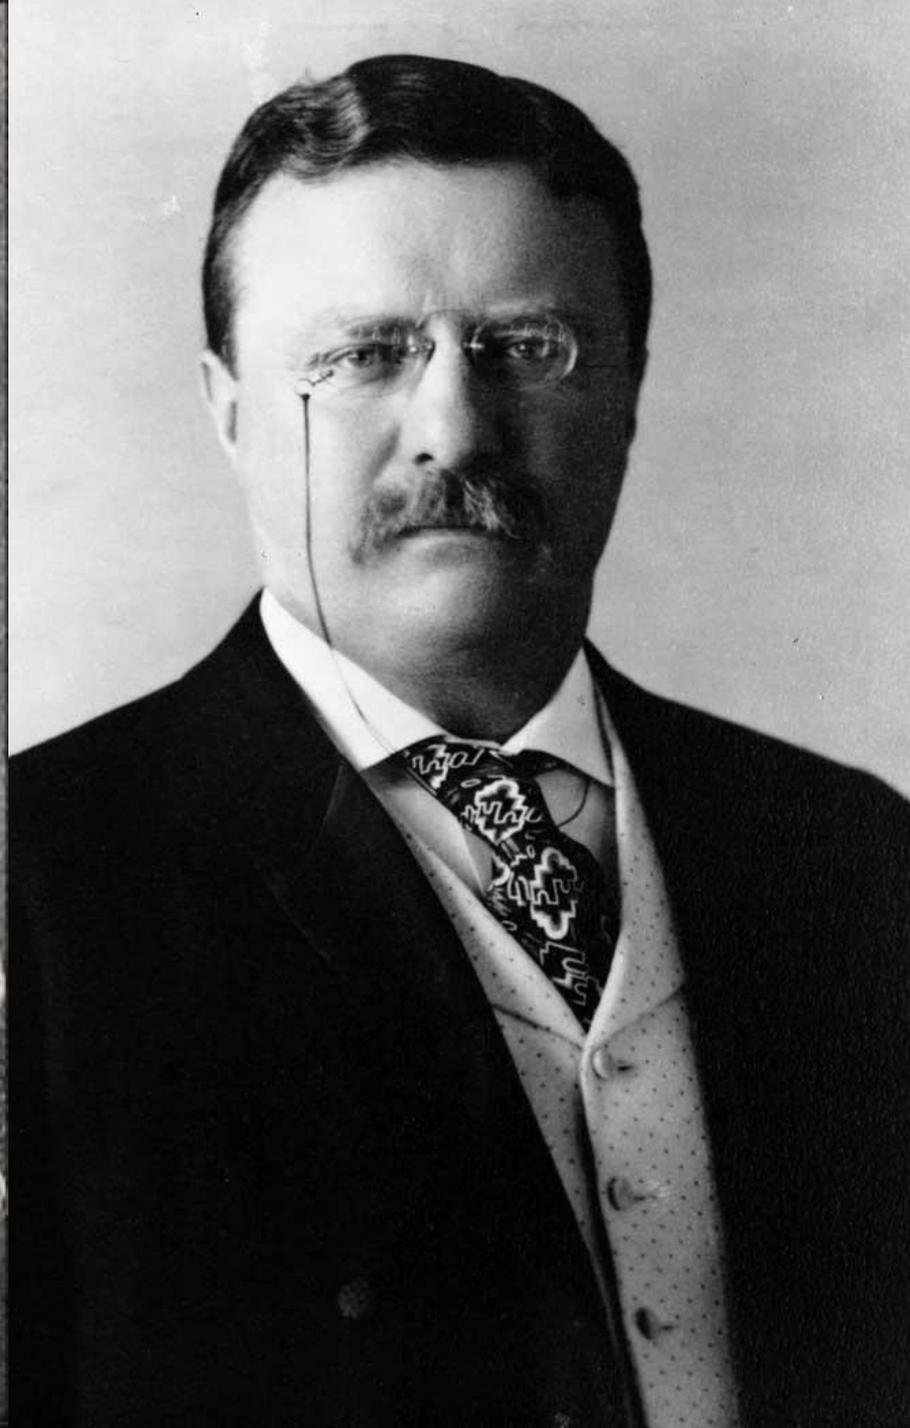

Wisdom and Strength for the Future

Wisdom and Strength for the Future

